

Fig. S1. Immunofluorescence analysis of (a) a patient's frozen skin biopsy taken in the first days of life demonstrates markedly reduced labelling for the $\beta 4$ integrin subunit along the dermal–epidermal junction, compared with (b) normal control skin (monoclonal antibody 439-9B against the cytoplasmic tail) (7).