

Fig. S1. Culture of Trichophyton concentricum. Whitish, waxy, cerebriform, umbilicated or crateriform, with brownish centre and white powdery edge. We thank Professor David Ellis (School of Molecular & Biomedical Science, University of Adelaide, Australia) for his collaboration.