

Fig. S1. One-year prevalence of hand eczema in relation to tobacco use habits. The bars represent estimated proportions calculated from post-hoc analyses which are included in the procedure performing prevalence proportion ratios. The different bars represent models that include different confounders and effect modifiers along with tobacco use habits.