

Fig. S2. (A) Critical stimulation time threshold (CsTT) and (B) critical temperature threshold (CTT) measurements case by case pre- and post-treatment with rupatadine, 20 mg/day. An improvement after one year of treatment with rupatadine was observed in patients with acquired cold urticaria. The discontinuous grey line represents the maximum stimulation time used (5 min) and lowest temperature used for stimulation (4°C).