

Table SIII. Factors that have been assessed for remission of eczema

Study	Loss-of-function mutations within FLG <sup>a</sup>	Exposure to pets (cats, dogs) during early childhood	Avoidance behaviour of pets	Sensitization/atopy (spec. IgE) <sup>a</sup>	Topical anti-inflammatory treatment of eczema during infancy <sup>a</sup>	Severity of eczema in infancy <sup>a</sup>	Family history of allergic disease	Number of siblings	Socioeconomic status <sup>b</sup>	Lifestyle and home environment <sup>c</sup>
Ili et al. (5) (25)	x	x	x	x	x	x	x	x	x	x
Ballardini et al.							x	x	x	x

<sup>a</sup>Primary exposures were defined as described in the Methods section. <sup>b</sup>Indicated by education, occupation, (household) income, or economic problems. <sup>c</sup>Such as breast-feeding, house location (rural/urban), and day-care attendance.

IgE: immunoglobulin E; spec.: specific.