

Fig. S2. CT scan – (a) Coronal image of the cervical region with white and black arrows indicating the hyper and hypo attenuating foci, respectively; (b, c) Axial image illustrating the extensive involvement of the genital and supra pubic areas. (d, e) Axial image of the lungs in both lung (d) and soft tissue (e) windows revealing bilateral nodules of up to 5 cm in diameter with a white arrow pointing hyper attenuating spots within visible only on soft tissue window.