Fig. S1. Chemical structures of the main components of lavender oil; linalyl acetate, linalool and caryophyllene with corresponding main oxidation products. Linalyl acetate hydroperoxides and linalool hydroperoxides were previously shown to be strong sensitizers, whereas caryophyllene oxide was shown to be a weak sensitizer (8–10).